Questions and answers

Q: Does this table illustrate all BHP Group companies?

A: The ATO data incorporates the relevant income tax amounts for BHP Group Limited and its wholly owned Australian tax resident subsidiaries, and any other Australian tax resident entities with total income of A$100 million or more in which BHP holds a 50% or greater interest. BHP does have an interest in some entities which do not have total income of A$100 million or more, and accordingly are not subject to these disclosure requirements.

Q: I cannot reconcile these amounts to the 2023 BHP Economic Contribution Report. Can you explain the difference?

A: There are several reasons why the ATO data is not the same as the BHP Economic Contribution Report 2023 (the Report) including:

- The ATO data represents the corporate income tax liability related to the FY2023 income year whereas the Report represents corporate income tax paid in the FY2023 income year. Therefore, the ATO data includes tax payments/refunds relevant to the FY2023 income year that were made/received outside the 1 July 2022 to 30 June 2023 period, whereas the Report includes cash payments and refunds received during the FY2023 income year, even where they relate to a different income year.
- The ATO data is reported in AUD whilst the Report disclosures are reported in USD.
- The ATO data is limited to entities with total income equal to or exceeding A$100 million whilst the Report includes all Australian BHP companies.

Q: What is the difference between Total Income and Taxable Income? Should they ordinarily be the same amount?

A: Total income refers to gross income or revenue (e.g. the amount received from the sale of commodities) and is an accounting concept. Total income does not take into account any of the expenses incurred in generating that income (e.g. mining costs). Taxable income represents assessable income less allowable deductions incurred for the entity. Differences between accounting profit and taxable income routinely arise due to different treatments of amounts under the accounting standards and tax law (e.g. exploration costs, carry forward tax losses, R&D tax concession and expenditure on capital assets).

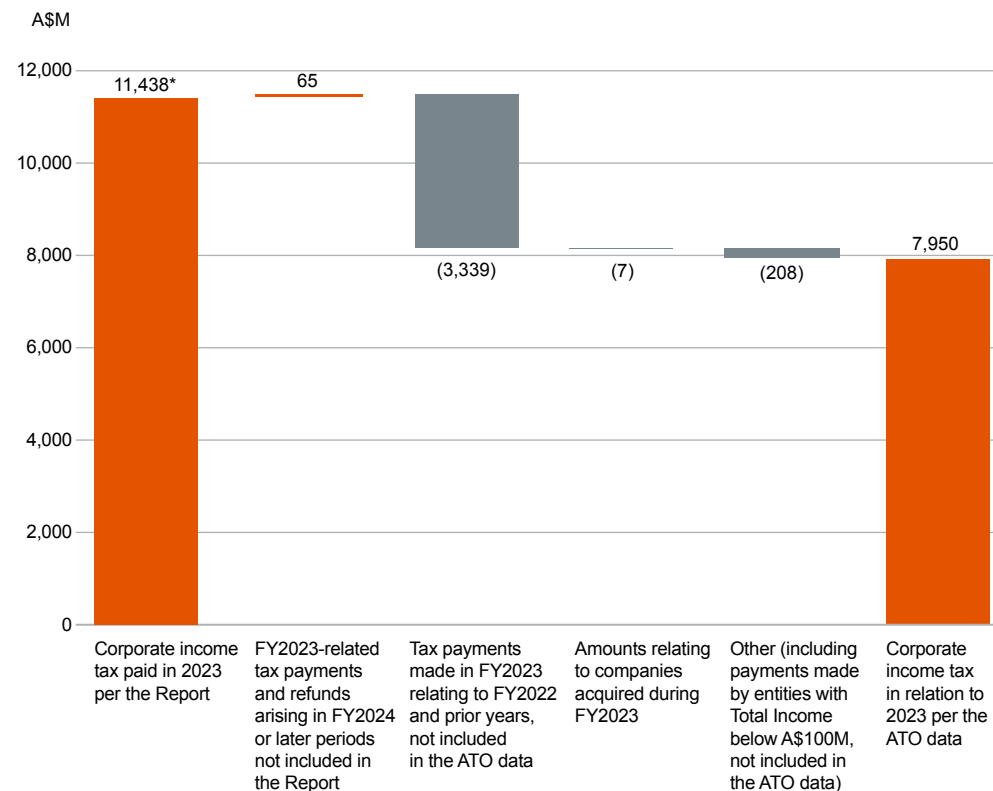

Q: The corporate tax rate in Australia is 30%. Why is Tax Payable not equal to 30% of Taxable Income?

A: The ATO's Income Tax Payable number reflects offsets to which BHP is entitled. These offsets are applied to reduce Australian income tax payable by BHP. The tax offsets in FY2023 related primarily to franking credits associated with dividends received from, and reflecting tax paid by, Australian BHP Group companies (predominantly BHP Iron Ore (Jimblebar) Pty Ltd).

For example, BHP Group Limited receives, from its majority owned Australian subsidiaries, fully franked dividends paid out of the subsidiaries' Australian after-tax profits. For each A$70 of fully franked dividends received by BHP Group Limited, A$30 of Australian income tax has already been paid by the subsidiary. The dividends (and franking credits) are included in Taxable Income, but are not subject to further tax in the hands of BHP Group Limited to avoid double taxation.

Excluding the effect of fully franked dividends received from the calculation, BHP Group Limited's tax payable on its taxable income is 29.65%.
